

From: Kelly Baker
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/26/01 10:02am
Subject: Microsoft hand slap

I hated the "Clinton Years". But there was one thing that was being done during that time that was warranted. That was the Microsoft case. Microsoft has severely abused its monopoly power by forcing unreasonable licensing agreements (which, by the way, it is doing AGAIN right under your noses!), forcing non-compete agreements, and forcing standards changes that it had previously agreed to (example: Java). Your "remedy" for Microsoft is equivalent to charging a business man $1 for having his competitors' legs broken! I am a supporter of President Bush, but this boneheaded move by the Justice Department is inexcusable. The currently presiding judge wanted a fair agreement. The ONLY party this agreement seems "fair" for is Microsoft!

Kelly Baker, M.S.
Systems Engineer